

Strategic Leadership Control

- “Strategic leadership is about understanding yourself and your goals,” she says. “It's about understanding the situation, considering options, and deciding. It's also about getting the best out of people, the best out of the situation, so that the organization does well.

