

Consumer Behavior in Services

- Consumer behavior in services is the study of how people make decisions about using, buying, and disposing of services. It's important for businesses to understand consumer behavior to create marketing plans and provide better customer service.

Categories in Consumer Decision-Making and Evaluation of Services

